How I implement the Future Directions CIC Mission and Values in my work life

Before I publish anything I put people first by always thinking 'would the person in this article be happy with this'. If I make a mistake I am transparent, own up to it and work about putting it right. I work creatively in my role as a designer and thinking of ways to promote FDCIC. If the days throws me challenges, I adapt and work with it, not against it. I go the extra mile by continually studying all areas of my job role, to develop and further my knowledge to ensure I am working to my full potential for Future Directions and the people we support.
